

If Love Is Not A Feeling | Poem

By Calvin Culy

If love is not a feeling,
Then where's this feeling from?
With what word should I describe it,
If love is not the one?

You say "Love is sacrificial,
A commitment to go on."
Cannot a promise carry passion?
From where does joyful service spawn?

Perhaps though love is not a feeling...
It's can't encapsulate the whole.
But this feeling that I have,
Reverberates down to my soul.

This feeling turns my focus,
Away from pleasing self,
It causes me to want to give,
My life for Someone else.

It urges my surrender,
And to praise my God above,
It binds me fast on solid ground,
And frees me like a dove.

This feeling must be love.
